

Central Oklahoma Workforce Briefing

April 2014

Overview

The Central Oklahoma Region, in this briefing, is comprised of the following counties: Canadian, Cleveland, Grady, Kingfisher, Lincoln, Logan, McClain, Oklahoma, Payne and Pottawatomie.

Central Oklahoma is one of the engines promoting economic development and job growth in the state of Oklahoma. Oklahoma City has boomed in the past five years. So much so, that Forbes Magazine has recognized this growth by placing Oklahoma City on its' top 10 list for the "Best Places for Business and Careers" and top 10 on its' list of "Best Cities for Good Jobs." These developments, amongst others, have transformed Oklahoma City into a nationwide destination for conventions and job-seekers.

Demographics of Central Oklahoma

The Central Oklahoma Region is made up of ten counties and has a total population of 1,460,729 according to 2012 Census estimate. This accounts for 38.3% of the total state population, which is 3,815,780 as of the 2012 Census population estimate.

Hispanics in the Central Oklahoma Region

- Statewide Hispanics account for 9.3% of the total population. This ethnic group can be made up of individuals that also claim White, Black, Asian, American Indian and/or any other type of racial heritage. As noted above, Hispanics in the Central Oklahoma Region account for 11.3% of the population.
- All age groups younger than 30 in the region have a Hispanic percentage of the total population greater than 14%.
- The Hispanic population of the Central Oklahoma Region does not drop below state average until after the age of 45.
- This type of Hispanic outlay indicates that Career Techs and Universities in the region will have the opportunity to specifically engage with younger Hispanics as they develop into members of the workforce.

Trend: In 2012-2013 there were 4,322 Associate’s degrees and Certificates awarded at the universities/colleges in the region. During the same time period, 13,249 Bachelor’s degrees or higher level degrees were awarded across the universities/colleges in the region. These totals are made up of the universities and colleges, which include both public and private, that are tracked by the Oklahoma State Regents for Higher Education.

Central Oklahoma’s Role in Filling the Educational Gap in the State

- 85.7% of the population in the Central Oklahoma Region has attained at least a High School Diploma.
- Based on projected demand the Central Oklahoma Region is well positioned to have a trained and ready workforce to meet whatever needs may arise for businesses in the region.
- Opportunity does present itself for Career Techs and post-secondary institutions to promote further education for high school students as a means to both complete their diploma and to go on to achieve a post-secondary certificate and/or degree.
- Values in the graph are calculated by the total number of each occupation’s educational requirement, divided by the total number of occupations.

Commuter Data

- The Central Oklahoma Region is unique when it comes to commuting patterns, while on the whole most residents stay within the region to work, in many counties less than half of residents work in the same county that they live in.
- Five of the ten counties have less than 47% of residents commuting to a job within the county. Seven of the ten counties have greater than 70% of residents remaining in region when commuting to work.
- The main hub for commerce in the region is Oklahoma City, and by extension Oklahoma County, nine of the ten counties residents in the region commute most often or second most often to Oklahoma County. The one county that does not commute most often or second most often to Oklahoma County is Kingfisher County.

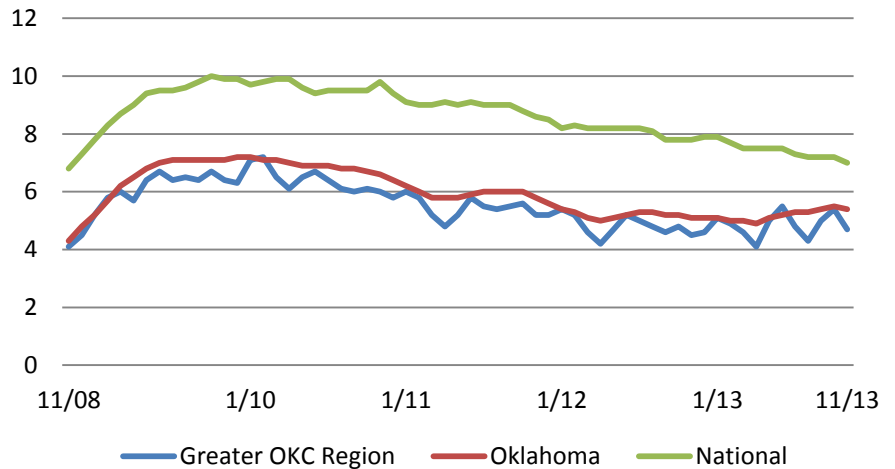

Economic Data

The Central Oklahoma Region’s unemployment numbers peaked in 2010 and have declined since, like most parts of the country. Interestingly, the state of Oklahoma and the Central Oklahoma Region virtually mirror each other’s unemployment numbers throughout the course of the past five years.

Unemployment Rate

- Compared to the national average, the unemployment rate in the Central Oklahoma Region has stayed anywhere from three to four percentage points lower throughout the five year period.
- In terms of trending, Central Oklahoma and the state have had similar peaks and troughs throughout the recession. For both the state and region, the general lowering of unemployment rates that has been in place since 2011 appears to be continuing, though at a more gradual pace now.
- In many ways, given the amount of population in the Central Oklahoma Region the unemployment rate serves as a bellwether of sorts for the rest of the state. Thus, strong commerce and a well-educated workforce are critical to ensuring low unemployment rates both at the Regional and state levels.
- As of November 2013 Oklahoma had the 13th lowest unemployment rate in the country, at 5.4%.

Wages by County

- Across all counties, the average annual earnings in the Central Oklahoma region is $50,900.
- This is approximately $1,700 more than the state’s average annual earnings of $49,200.
- Oklahoma County has the highest average earnings of any county in the Region at $55,500. This is $9,000 more than the second highest earning county in the region, Kingfisher.
- Five of the counties in the region all have yearly earnings below $40,000. Grady, McClain, Pottawatomie, Lincoln and Logan.

Wages by Industry

- Central Oklahoma’s industries have higher annual earnings in seven of the thirteen profiled. Oil and Gas Extraction along with Utilities perform the best, by average earnings, compared to other industries in the region.
- Transportation and Warehousing is the industry that lags the furthest behind the average earnings statewide. In the region, Transportation and Warehousing’s average earnings are $53,626, statewide the average annual earnings are $61,529.
- Of the thirteen industries listed eleven of them provide annual earnings that top the state average for annual earnings.
- Given that Oklahoma City, Edmond, Norman and Midwest City are all in this region it should come as no surprise that there are high-paying positions available to those within the workforce that meet educational and work experience requirements.

Ecosystems Impact in the Central Oklahoma Region on Occupations and Salaries

The Oklahoma Department of Commerce identified five ecosystems in Oklahoma important to the economy to generate wealth, have employment growth potential, or where the state has a competitive advantage. In each ecosystem, there are critical occupations necessary for future growth and advancement. In addition to the five statewide ecosystems, there are ecosystems at the regional level important for regional economies.

Given the diverse nature of employers in the Central Oklahoma Region there are significant places of employment that fall outside the guidelines of the five ecosystems. A few of these places of employment are listed below:

Name of Company	Location	Employees
Oklahoma State University	Stillwater	5000-7500
The University of Oklahoma	Norman	5000-7500
Sonic Restaurants	Oklahoma City(HQ), Multiple locations in the state	2000-2500
Citizen Potawatomi Nation	Shawnee	2000-2500
University of Central Oklahoma	Edmond	1250-1500
Oklahoma City University	Oklahoma City	750-1000
Premier Attractions Management	Oklahoma City	500-750
Chickasaw Enterprises	Norman	500-750
Oklahoma Baptist University	Shawnee	250-500
